Don't count Romulus casinos out

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

While other Metro area political leaders were lambasting Gov. John Engler's ban on off-reservation casinos, Mayor Beverly McAnally said the edict does not impact Romulus.

While McAnally claims that morally she remains opposed to casinos, "if they (casinos) are going to happen in our area, I am going to make sure that the city gets its fair share of the revenues derived from them."

Having anticipated what Engler would do in advance, McAnally said, she feels that a possibility remains that one of the newly recognized Native American tribes could still set up a reservation within the city and a casino could be created on it.

McAnally and her Community Development Director Jane Downing have already talked with representatives of such tribes as well as aides of former Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca.

The veteran mayor says she sees her role as one who needs to remain vigilant and informed about the changes in the Michigan casino picture, so that she can act quickly and decisively on her city's behalf.

Engler created a furor on June 27, when he announced his "no dice" edict sealing off non-reservation Indian casino plans in Inkster, Detroit, Pontiac, Highland Park and "anywhere else" (including Romulus and Detroit Metro Airport).

Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer was the first to come out swinging against Engler, saying he was extremely disappointed with the casino rejection statement, citing the fact that the heavy majority of casinos currently in Michigan are in the Upper Peninsula.

Former Mayor Coleman Young charged that Archer should have yelled, protested and raised hell to get the casinos open in Detroit.

Inkster Mayor Edward Bivens said he too is ticked off by Engler's actions as it seriously impacts the city's economic and employment growth plans.

Bivens said he considers Engler's actions as self-serving in that he appears to be wooing the Religious Right in search of the Republican Vice Presidency nomination next year.

But Bivens said Inkster is not to be denied and he will pursue other avenues in search of landing a casino there.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, who has visions of opening a casino on Detroit Metro Airport grounds, could not be reached for comment, but his Deputy Michael Duggan expressed the feeling that Engler had made a huge mistake.

Meanwhile not everyone was upset with Engler's decision. Romulus area pastor Brad Lewis said that the fact that Engler realizes that casinos are no quick fix for any community's economic problems impressed him.

"In addition many of our secondary ills become primary woes, when casinos open locally," Lewis, pastor of the Community United Methodist Church, said.

"The money coming from casinos is nice, but it creates no lasting product or service for a community," he continued.

Lewis said he was disappointed with the "whining" that came from Archer and other casino backers, but also realizes that casino forces have not been permanently stopped here.

Lewis urged those in authority to study the economic turn-arounds of cities such as Cleveland that have occurred in recent years without the stimulus of casinos or other heavily gaming backed efforts.

Protesters oppose well review committee

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Long-term Vickery, Ohio, deep well citizen committee member Harry Manning visited Romulus last Thursday to promote a similar review committee program here, but met an angry group of well protesters along the way.

Manning, who was invited by Environmental Disposal Services representatives, said he was not in Romulus to voice support for the planned EDS environmental deep well project, but to stress the value of citizen review committees in general.

But vocal members of the Romulus Environmentalists Caring About People (RECAP) group, declared several times during the more than two hours session "you have a committee in Vickery, because you had a deep well first. We don't want a well in the first place."

Manning, a retired ceramic engineer, has been one of the six voting members of the review committee for over a decade. The committee was formed shortly after a severe violation of environmental laws was found at the Vickery deep well.

Manning admitted that the Waste Management well company paid a $30 million settlement to landowners within a five mile radius of the well, after the disclosure of the violation.

Manning said he was opposed to the settlement, claiming he felt the issue should have been adjudicated in court instead.

Calling the period before the settlement "the bad old days," Manning said "it is almost inconceivable those environmental woes could happen today."

RECAP leader and city council candidate Debby Romak said, "You can't tell me nothing happened since then and that it couldn't happen today!"

Manning said, "I'm not and I don't plan to."

He explained that there is now a full time inspector at the Vickery well site, but admitted that regionally Environmental Protection Agency and Department of Natural Resources agents are stretched thin.

Zoning Board of Appeals member and council candidate Stanley Kreft complained that when the environmental inspectors come to a company in Michigan, they are stopped at the door and told to give 24-hours notice of such inspections.

Manning claims that such a time delay cannot occur in Ohio.

Some RECAP members complained that they didn't learn of last Thursday night's meeting at the Hilton Suites until hours before.

Manning admitted he didn't know until late if he was actually coming and had hoped to bring a fellow member, Roy Gibbs, with him. Gibbs, he said, has a different view on well injection efforts and he felt their sometimes opposing views could have stimulated a lively discussion in Romulus.

Manning said he would work to have a representative group from RECAP attend a future Vickery deep well committee meeting and even tour the well facilities if they wish.

Among some of the other local officials attending the meeting were City Councilman Ellis Pennington, ZBA member Junior Block and council candidate Mary Collins.

In addition RECAP member R.P. Lilly was on hand to question Manning about past infractions at the Vickery well site.

Council refuses to reappoint ZBA's Radford

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Anger and political emotions ran high Monday night as the Romulus City Council refused to reappoint a current Zoning Board of Appeals member, promoted an alternate to regular member status and selected a rookie candidate with anti-environmental well ties for the second open ZBA seat.

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry, one of the three advisory board members for the council, asked his fellow councilmen to delay the appointments for 30 days, since the committee could only recommend one candidate for the two seats and that candidate was incumbent board member, James Radford.

Raspberry and Councilman Ellis Pennington supported Radford's reappointment, while Councilman Randy Gear opposed the move during the private Advisory Committee meeting, held minutes before the council meeting.

But the councilmen refused to table the appointments, since a critical ZBA meeting concerning the $6 million environmental deep well issue was to be the prime issue before it two nights later.

Two citizens, Dorothy Nessler and Bruce Jones, appeared before the council, to argue against the naming of current ZBA board alternates, Brooker Edwards and Mary Collins, as regular board members.

They complained such action would be a disservice to the community.

With murder charges dropped against former Wayne resident Ricky Alan Amolsch, the case is re-opened on the death of Westland resident Jane Marie Fray. Westland police are now targeting Anthony Guy Walker as the accused murderer. Walker, a convicted rapist, had previously served more than 14 years in prison on prior criminal sexual conduct charges. Amolsch free on murder charge

By KIMBERLY WOLOSKE
MCN Staff Writer

The charge was first-degree murder. The prime suspect, a 39-year-old divorced father of two teenage children. The key witness, a convicted rapist that previously served more than 14 years in prison on criminal sexual conduct charges.

The incriminating evidence in the case was based on teeth marks on the face of the victim, left by the assailant.

Originally, the suspect in the case was believed to be Ricky Alan Amolsch of Wayne. Amolsch, 39, was arrested and charged with first-degree murder following the discovery of Jane Marie Fray's body on the floor of her Westland trailer. Fray and Amolsch had been dating seriously for about six months when her bloody body was discovered August 23, 1994.

Today, however, the man accused of his girlfriends brutal murder walked out of the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice a free man. Released from the charges and the confines that cost him 10 months out of his children's lives, yet never completely free from the memories of living 300 days of his life as an accused murderer.

"They took over 10 months of my life away from me," said Amolsch. "It's been a nightmare you can't imagine living."

Before the arrest Amolsch and his two children, of which he had custody, lived on the 4600 block of Chestnut in Wayne. As a longtime employee of General Motors, Amolsch worked at the Powertrain Plant in Ypsilanti for 18 years. The charges cost the Wayne native his job and his home.

Ultimately it was a series of events that led to the release and subsequent dismissal of charges. Detroit Recorder's Court Judge M. John Shamo says he was particularly disturbed by the slow pace the prosecution and the Westland Police Department were taking in the case.

"If they had something against this man let's get it out in court and make a move, instead of letting him sit in jail

"I think the prosecution ought to wake up. They haven't been fair to the people or the court. I think a gross injustice has been done to this gentleman in this case."

- Judge M. John Shamo

for 10 months when a mans life is at stake," said Shamo.

"I think the prosecution ought to wake up," said Shamo. "They haven't been fair to the people or the court. I think a gross injustice has been done to this gentleman in this case."

Shamo read the opinion of the independent dental expert from Cook County Illinois, the dentist said after reviewing the evidence with a degree of scientific certainty the bite marks were caused by the teeth of Mr. Walker and not those of Mr. Amolsch, respectively disagreeing with the Wayne County Forensic Dental Examiner, Alan Warnick.

The judge therefore granted dismissal of murder in the first degree charges against Amolsch with prejudice. With prejudice, said Shamo, would mean Amolsch would not face charges related to this case ever again.

Amolsch was free. Outside the courtroom, Amolsch said he felt like the judge believed in him. "I'm just happy it's over," said Amolsch.

"We're not through in court," said Attorney Richard Lustig.

Amolsch says he has some other things to deal with that the time in jail has robbed him of. "I don't even know where they buried Jane," said Amolsch. "I prayed in jail she would help me find who did this to her." Amolsch said he wished Jane's family would have been in court.

"I just want to take some flowers to her grave," said Amolsch.

male neighbor then fled to Colorado.

The bite marks left by the assailant were originally deemed highly consistent with the dentition of Amolsch, said Wayne County chief forensic dentist Alan Warnick. However, the developments in the case that led Detroit Recorder's Court Judge M. John Shamo to dismiss the murder one charges, again, hinged on the expert testimony of a dentist on the bite marks.

According to an independent dentist from Cook County, Ill., after careful examination of the evidence, he determined the teeth marks were left by Walker and not Amolsch, respectfully disagreeing with Schmidt. Therefore, June 29, Judge Shamo dismissed first-degree murder charges against Amolsch with prejudice.

His attorney, Richard Lustig, said he won't have to worry about being charged in this case ever again.

According to the Westland Police Department the case has been re-opened.

"Amolsch is no longer the focus of the investigation," said Deputy Chief John Reddy. The continuing investigation, according to police, will focus on the man the police initially questioned as the key witness, Anthony Walker.

Walker is currently incarcerated, awaiting an Oct. 11 jury trial for the rape and robbery of a female neighbor. He is being held by a $100,000/10 percent cash bond until his trial before Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Massey Jones.

Only time and further investigation of the evidence will tell whether or not the right man is sitting in jail.

All Amolsch knows is that he's glad its not him anymore.

Case re-opened, key witness suspected

By KIMBERLY WOLOSKE
MCN Staff Writer

Murder itself is a heinous crime.

For Westland resident Jane Marie Fray her death was particularly brutal. The 39-year-old woman was found stabbed to death and strangled on her bedroom floor in the Westland Meadows trailer she called home, Aug. 23, 1994.

According to the Wayne County forensic pathologist Dr. Carl Schmidt, Fray could have been killed three times over based on the severity of the wounds she suffered in the attack. Stabbed a total of 22 times, the fatal injuries included knife contact in the heart, 10 times in the neck, two times to her left temple and once behind the ear. Schmidt testified Fray was also strangled and struck in the head.

Two of the most heinous injuries included a bite mark, made by the attacker, and the removal of a six-inch single edge steak knife taken from the mouth of the victim.

After an investigation by the Westland Police Department, Ricky Alan Amolsch, the victim's boyfriend, was charged with first-degree murder. For the next 10-months Amolsch remained imprisoned for a crime he said he did not commit.

The investigation by the Westland Police Department relied, in part, on the testimony of the key witness and neighbor of the victim, Anthony Guy Walker.

Walker, a convicted rapist, had previously served more than 14 years in prison on prior criminal sexual conduct charges. Since the August 1994 murder, Walker was involved in another case where he allegedly raped and robbed a fe-

Secretary of state office is relocated

The Romulus Secretary of State branch office will close at the end of the business day July 11 to begin its relocation effort.

The branch office is currently located at 36539 Goddard Road and is being switched to 36608 Goddard as of July 17.

Secretary of State Candice S. Miller urged those who need services during that four-day period to visit offices in Belleville (847 Sumpter Road) or Taylor (23027 Ecorse Road). Both offices close at 7 p.m. each Wednesday, she said.

Student earns legal degree

Pamela Lynn Jeffries, a 1988 Romulus High School graduate, recently received a degree of juris doctor from Duke University School of Law.

Jeffries was the recipient of a four-year scholar recognition award, while earning a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from the University of Michigan.

She was a member of the National Honor Society, while attending Romulus High. She is the daughter of Marjorie Jeffries and the late Delbert T. Jeffries. She currently resides in Westland.

City trucks, vans tires slashed

Parks and Recreation Director Brian Hitsky reported on June 21 that the tires on three Recreation Department vans and two pickup trucks were found slashed outside the Bibbins Street offices.

Seniors to visit Tiger Stadium

Twenty-six Romulus area senior citizens will be transported to Tiger Stadium on Sept. 19. Tickets will include a reserved seat, pizza or hot dog and a cold drink.

Tickets costing $8 per person can be obtained from the Romulus Senior Center.

Romulus woman graduates college

Lorie Ann Beardsley, daughter of David and Darlene Beardsley, was awarded her bachelor of science degree from Pensacola Christian College in Pensacola, Fla. last month.

In addition to majoring in commercial writing, she was named to the dean's list. Beardsley also wrote articles for the Pensacola community newspaper and was a member of the college's yearbook staff.

Pensacola Christian College is a liberal arts college enrolling 3,000 students from every state in the U.S. and 40 foreign countries.

Beardsley graduated in 1991 from Metro Baptist High School in Belleville.

She also taught Sunday School classes at Metro Baptist Church and sang in the church choir.

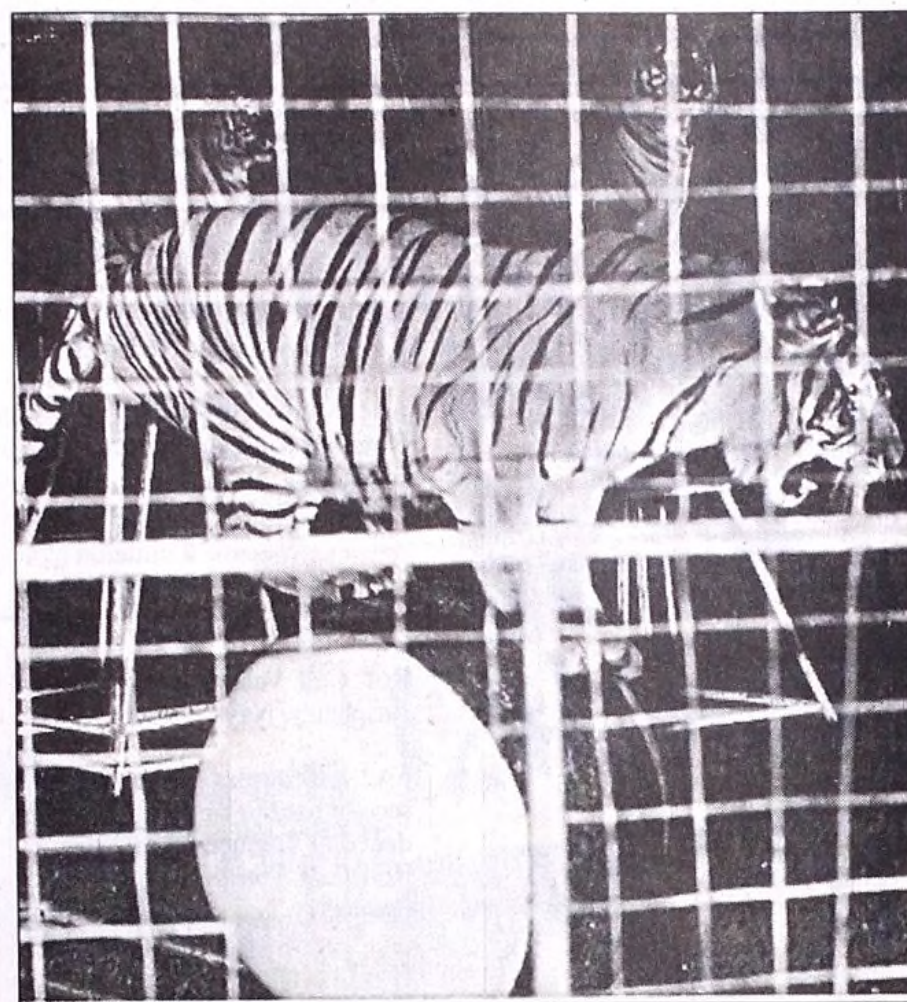

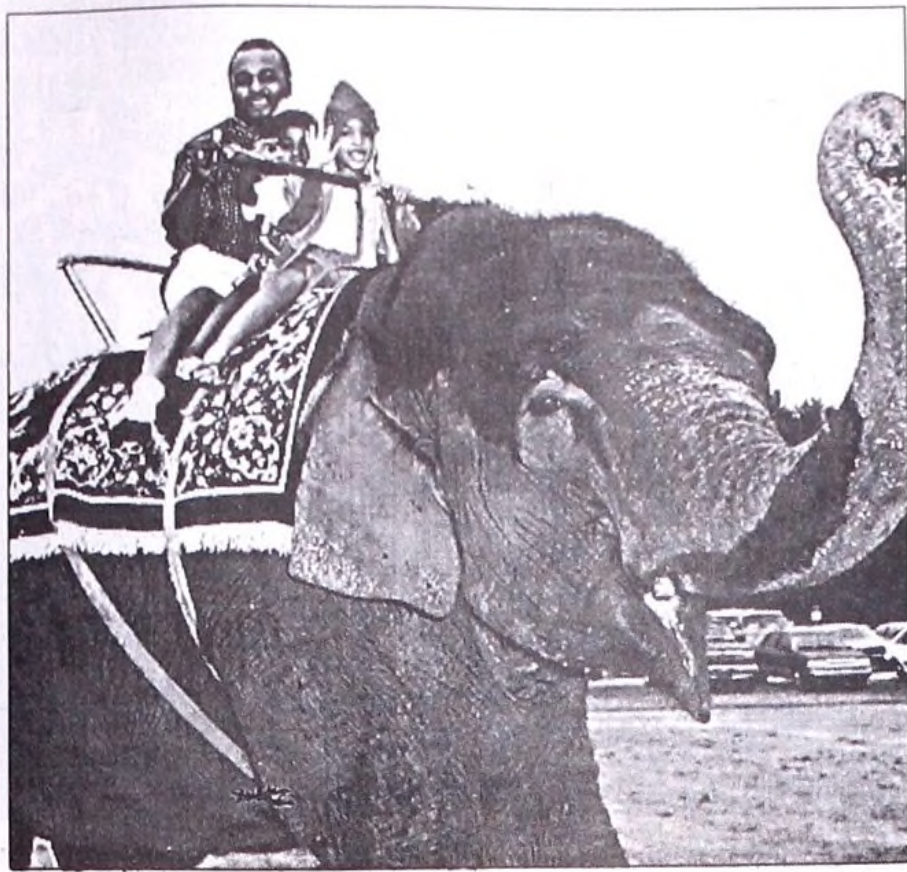

Little League helpers needed

For the first time in recent history, the Romulus Little League will be hosting the summer playoff games, league secretary Julie Goodman said Monday.

And because of that, the league is in serious need of some volunteer help to work concession stands, keep score books and work on the fields between games, Goodman said.

Persons wishing to help are urged to contact Bob DeMoisey at 942-9261 or Goodman at 941-6797.

The games will be played at the Romulus High School field.

Circus provides thrills for 1,100

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The arrival of the Franzen Brothers Circus provided not only the biggest show in town, but the most profitable for the local Chamber of Commerce.

Mark Lewkowicz, former president of the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce, revealed that between 30 to 40 area residents turned out early on June 26 to watch as Okha the elephant helped raise the circus tent.

Lewkowicz also was encouraged that the chamber sold 828 advance tickets to the 4:30 and 7 p.m. shows, despite the fact that a number of competing circuses were offering performances the same weekend.

One nearby circus actually was conducting its performances at almost the exact same times as the Franzen Brothers Circus in Romulus, he said.

The total sales for the day was 1,122, Lewkowicz said, thus offering a nice profit for the local chamber.

As usual circus owner Wayne Franzen's tiger act provided some of the top thrills for those in attendance, he said.

In addition to the number of thrills under the big top, Lewkowicz said, many of the youngsters and their parents enjoyed the circus' petting zoo and rides on various animals, particularly the ponies and the elephants.

Also popular was Cheeko the clown and Dr. Chamberlain the festive ringmaster.

This marked the third time the Franzen Brothers Circus had visited Romulus in recent years.

Four-year-old Matt Wagle of Romulus was awarded two family passes to the circus that day for guessing closest to Okha the elephant's exact weight of 7,158 pounds.

Matt's guess was 7,254 pounds.

Reservist dies in crash

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

An Army reservist from Romulus was fatally injured four blocks from his home Friday morning, when his truck was broadsided and overturned at Goddard and Harrison, police reported.

It was the second traffic fatality of the year in Romulus.

The victim was Larry Edward Milatz, 48, a sergeant first class with the U.S. Army Reserves. His funeral was conducted Monday from the Martenson Funeral Home of Allen Park.

According to Romulus Traffic Officer Jerome Yoscovits, Mr. Milatz was traveling through foggy conditions to the 70th Division of the U.S. Army Reserves in Livonia about 7 a.m. last Friday, when his 1986 Ford Ranger truck was struck and overturned on the driver's side.

Yoscovits said visibility at the time of the accident was about one fifth of a mile.

Mr. Milatz was not wearing a seat belt and thus was apparently crushed to death, the officer said.

The driver of the second vehicle, a 62-year-old Inkster man, also was seriously injured in the crash, but is listed in stable condition at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. Yoscovits said this driver also was driving without a seatbelt in use.

Police are investigating whether excessive speed and no head lights on the Inkster driver's Oldsmobile were factors in the fatality.

Mr. Milatz is survived by two children, Wendy (David) Dudek and Eric; his mother, Dorothy Milatz; a brother, H. Richard; a sister, Kathy Williams; and three grandchildren.

He was predeceased by his wife, Susan; and his father, Harvey.

tion would "stack the deck" against Environmental Disposal Services, owners and operators of the planned deep well project.

Nessler said it made no sense in naming the pair, since both were current city council candidates and would have to step down from their board seats in a few months if elected.

Nessler said naming such board members, would give EDS additional ammunition in its lawsuits against the city.

Jones asked the council to use good judgment and not appoint a ZBA board member, who has pre-announced opinions on the injection well issue. He asked that the ZBA appointments not be compromised.

When both hinted such appointments bordered on illegality, Mayor pro tem Mary Ann Banks exploded with emotion and cried out, "Don't tell us what is legal. Nothing here is illegal and we will not be intimidated."

Councilman William Wadsworth also said he took great offense at the comments and an alleged letter he received from EDS forces just before the council meeting urging him not to vote for anti-well persons.

Jones, who also was a candidate for an alternate ZBA seat, then withdrew his candidacy and immediately left the chambers.

Gear then began to raise the name of various ZBA candidates for consideration.

Both Raspberry and Pennington offered impassioned pleas for Radford's reappointment, citing that while being an independent thinker, Radford also was a long supporter of the administration of Mayor Beverly McAnally.

Radford voted in opposition to the official city position, when the EDS zoning requests were heard earlier this year, but both Raspberry and Pennington said that should not be held against him on the reappointment issue.

Radford also stated toward the end of the ZBA hearings that he planned to retire from the board, and then surprised many by sending in a letter asking for reappointment to a new term.

Radford supporters said the retirement issue was raised earlier this year to keep the attorneys from delaying action at the ZBA level. The hearings on the well had faced numerous delays prior to that point.

Pennington said Radford should also be reappointed, since no one had ever been denied reappointment in the past if they requested it.

Councilman Michael Prybyla countered that statement by saying, "That is not true. I was denied reappointment myself nine years ago to another seat on the Planning Commission."

The council then got down to a series of concentrated votes on potential candidates. Edwards was selected by a Mayor pro tem Mary Ann Banks.

5-2 vote to fill the seat of former ZBA chairman Norm McLenon, who resigned abruptly at the close of the June ZBA meeting. The term for that seat expires on June 30, 1997.

Edwards appointment was opposed by Raspberry and Councilman Noah "Pete" Bergeron.

Then surprisingly the council voted unanimously for Dan Buzzard, 7-0, despite the fact he has been an outspoken foe over a year against the well project.

Buzzard fills the seat formerly held by Radford and expires on June 30, 1998.

The council then selected Tim Spiewak to fill the alternate ZBA seat formerly filled by Edwards. The vote on Spiewak was 5-1-1 with Bergeron voting no and Raspberry abstaining.

The second alternate ZBA seat remains filled by Collins.

Romulus Station became the center of village activities, it stated, and churches and schools soon began to dot the landscape. With the increase of population, Romulus also saw a growing business and industrial area and ultimately the creation of Willow Run Expressway and a small airport—the forerunner of today's massive Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The legislature cited the city's 25 years of technological advancement that has led to a common sense of community and responsibility toward one's neighbor.

The birthday celebration also offered the debut of the Romulus Community Symphony Orchestra conducted by Edouard Kesner of Romulus.

The newly created symphony (about 20 strong) offered five selections, including the musical background for the "Happy Birthday" rendition.

The ceremony was tastefully climaxed with the ceremonial serving of ice cream and cake by Romulus Senior Center Director Marilyn Hoffer and senior citizen volunteers.

Prior to the birthday celebration, Art in the Park and the city's first Hot Summer Cruisin' car show took place, featuring the display of 16 cars dating 1972 or older.

The festivities for the July 4th holiday were hastily put together this spring by Hitsky and a dedicated group of citizen volunteers following the sudden demise of the annual Romulus Festival.

On Monday morning, ceremonies at 10 a.m. kicked off an all day open house at the recently remodeled City Hall and Public Library buildings.

City Treasurer James Napiorkowski welcomed the gathering in the hallway of city hall, marking the unveiling of the plaque symbolizing the completion of the $3.5 million remodeling effort.

Napiorkowski proudly said the massive remodeling and upgrading project actually came in $300,000 under its projected cost. The construction was coordinated by Brad Fields.

McAnally told the assembled crowd that the remodeling effort came about two years ago, after it was discovered that a great deal of asbestos was located in both buildings.

"Over the years we have had many compliments on the architecture of Romulus City Hall. Now today it will be even safer environmentally and more beautiful," McAnally said.

In addition to adding a sprinkler system to both buildings, the rooms were remodeled to make better use of space and were made more handicapped accessible, McAnally said.

More than 40 new ornamental pear trees have been added to the exterior of both buildings and new sod is expected to be added this summer, Napiorkowski said.

"We are very proud at this dedication to give these beautiful structures back to the people, who we serve," McAnally added.

Illegal fireworks confiscated

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Romulus police confiscated 39 cases of illegal fireworks from a local flea market sales area last weekend, Police Chief Daryl Poe reported Monday.

Poe said he was taking a leisurely walk through the Greenlawn Grove Flea Market on Middlebelt Road, when he suddenly noticed a number of customers purchasing rockets, cherry bombs and other items from a local vendor.

Upon closer inspection, Poe said, he found that the explosives were the type that are banned from sales in the state of Michigan.

The chief called for a marked police unit to respond to the site for the confiscation. The main operator, who resides in Romulus, told his customers, "Oops, looks like we're out of business," as he spied the police approaching, Poe said.

The operator took full responsibility of his actions, Poe said, even though he had a three-man staff.

Poe is turning the explosives and other information over to the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office for possible charges.

Pro schedules soccer clinic gives back to community

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

John Thiede wants to give back to the community that has aided him so much in both his sports and local fire department careers.

Thiede, a member of the professional indoor soccer team The Toledo Twisters, recently offered to provide a free four-hour soccer clinic for local students.

Brian Hitsky, city parks and recreation director, accepted Thiede's offer and recently 56 coed students turned out for his first soccer clinic of the summer.

Thiede, who is a defender with the Twisters, is willing to provide one or more soccer clinics this summer if the students or their parents make their wishes known to Hitsky. Such requests can be called in to 942-6852.

"We trained them in fundamental soccer skills," Thiede said, "including shooting, dribbling and stopping the ball that is passed to them."

The Twisters are similar to local soccer teams such as the Detroit Neons and Rockers, he said.

Thiede, who has been in professional soccer for four years, also made arrangements through a series of sponsors to provide free T-shirts to each soccer clinic participant.

The front of the T-shirts bear a sketch of Thiede's face and the back lists the names of the official clinic sponsors.

The indoor soccer season for the Twisters lasts from October until March, Thiede said, and since Toledo is within commuting distance he can stay active with the Romulus Fire Department at the same time.

Thiede, who has been a firefighter for the past nine years, recently was named lieutenant by Fire Chief William Greenblatt. Prior to his recent promotion, Thiede was a fire department sergeant for several years.

Thiede reported the following are the sponsors of the clinic: Romulus Auto Supply, Romulus Tanning, Polka-Dot Party Store, Udders, Sister Act Deli and Catering, Romulus IGA and Romulus Goodfellows.

Volunteer nursery rocker shares love, lullabies

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

A little tender loving care goes a long way. Just ask Gladyce Jackson, a member of the Golden Hour Club in Wayne, who not only volunteers her time but also her heart.

Jackson spends a great part of her day on Fridays rocking newly born infants, and she enjoys every minute.

"They are just so adorable," said Jackson. "The best part is they don't sass you back."

From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Fridays Jackson sits in a rock-ing chair offering her loving arms and her soft voice to each infant that arrives at the nursery.

"I've rocked over 1,000
babies," said Jackson. "Yes, they do cry a lot, but I found if you give them a little love they stop. That's all they need."

The babies seem to know
Jackson cares about them.
When they arrive in her arms, she starts to hum a lullaby, and their world is at peace again.

"I have three grown boys of my own," Jackson said. "It's really a lot of fun to take care of little ones again. It's the best job anyone could ask for. Plus, you have such great people to work, especially the nurses."

Jackson is one of a select group of approximately 70 volunteers who share her love for children in the Annapolis Hospital nursery in Wayne. She said more volunteers are needed.

"We really don't have enough volunteers," said Jack-

son. "Anyone who is interested in volunteering here can just contact the hospital. I plan on staying as long as the doctor will let me."

Still, it seems no matter how many volunteers Annapolis nursery receives, Jackson will remain a favorite with the babies. Bev Campbell said she knows Jackson is very special.

Campbell is a receptionist at Annapolis.

"She rocked by grandson, Nicholas Massa," Campbell said. "Every day she gave me a full report on how he was doing. He's now 9 months old and very happy. I think Gladyce had a little something to do with that."

FRIDAY JULY 7TH ONLY

So you think you got a raw deal last week. Consider Ricky Amolsch. He has been an occupant of the Wayne County Jail for the past 10 months, accused of first degree murder.

Mike's musings
Mike Wilcox

Last Friday, Detroit Recorder's Court Judge John Shamo cut him loose and dismissed all charges against the man accused of brutally murdering his girlfriend, Jane Marie Fray, in their Westland Meadows mobile home.

Meanwhile, Fray's next-door neighbor, Anthony Guy Walker, a convicted rapist who spent 14 years in prison on previous criminal sexual conduct charges, was being heralded as the prosecution's star witness.

The star witness, however, did not appear, at least to many of us, as the kind of guy who could be creditable. In fact, Walker had been accused of raping and robbing another neighbor a few months after Fray's death, and as a result, fled to Colorado.

So why did Westland police believe the story of a convicted rapist and thief Walker? Even Judge Shamo would like to know.

"If they had something against this man, let's get it out in court and make a move, instead of letting him sit in jail for 10 months when a man's life is at stake," said Shamo.

One of the real heroes was Rod Hansen. A veteran reporter for talk radio WJR, Hansen never wavered from his opinion that Amolsch was innocent. He concluded this after spending months talking with Amolsch, his family and neighbors. Despite great pressure from the Westland police and prosecutors, Hansen stuck to his opinion and used his radio station and anyone else who would listen as forums to get Amolsch's story out.

And the goats — I hate to agree, but Judge Shamo and reporter Hansen are right. The Westland police blew this investigation and the Wayne County Prosecutor's office went along with it. You can't argue with Westland's effort to put killers behind bars. We all agree we want our police to be aggressive in this regard. However, Amolsch's guilt was not clear cut and more attention should have been paid to the star witness's possible involvement.

Amolsch will have a difficult time picking up the pieces. His job at GM Powertrain has been lost. His two kids have been taken away. But, at least, for now he can savor his freedom and feel comfortable that a lifetime in jail will not be part of his agenda.

Youth facility is priority

A battle over youth facility funds is threatening the establishment of an academy/charter school for "at risk" youth at the K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base in the Upper Peninsula.

The project, which was launched by the Downriver Community Conference and Downriver Mutual Aid, also has been under consideration by the 18-member Conference of Western Wayne.

The youth facility was scheduled to be opened at the former base after its closing in September, but the expected funding for it — some $2 million from the .01-mill tax levied in 1988 — have been tied up by Wayne County officials for a new youth home in downtown Detroit to house pre-trial offenders.

Whatever the outcome is over this battle for youth facility funds, the county taxpayers are anxious to see their tax dollars put to the use that they were intended. After some seven years of dodging the original purpose of the tax — earmarked for the construction of a new youth facility — it is time that the county finance a youth facility in Wayne County or establish an academy out of the county.

The taxes are continuing to be collected, and the taxpayers' patience has been far overextended.

Festival workers praised

We are in the mid-season of festivals in Western Wayne County, and there is more family entertainment to come this summer.

We congratulate all those who have worked behind the scenes as well as on the site to make the events successful. Without the community-minded citizens who toil, often without recognition, the festivals and fairs could not take place.

We extend our appreciation to you for a job well done.

Thanks expressed

To the editor:
On behalf of the 1995 Canton Liberty Fest Committee, I would like to extend a special thank you to all of the businesses, groups and individuals who helped make the fourth annual Liberty Fest the biggest and best yet.

The initial goal of the Liberty Fest Committee was twofold...to provide a wholesome, family atmosphere of fun and unique activities and to showcase Heritage Park.

The Liberty Fest has now established itself as Canton's largest community event and is a true source of community pride among residents. The committee is constantly striving to make improvements to the Fest and we already are planning for 1996. My sincere thanks also go out to the countless volunteers who contributed their time and energy in making the Fest such a success.

Is America's dream fading?

To the editor:
Is the American "standard of living" declining? Or, is that just a bunch of nonsense from "Nervous Nellies" who would always find something to complain about — no matter how good things really were? Answer: Depending on your age — yes, no and maybe.

If your definition of the "American Dream" is a big house and a big car — then things are looking pretty bleak for the younger generation — under age forty.

ON the other hand, if you think electronic gizmos and gadgets are important — like for instance — cellular phones, lap-top computers and electric athletic shoes. Welcome to the "Golden Age!"

Standard of Living is hard to measure. Why? Because advanced technologies keep changing the standards. Henry Ford I — a multi-millionaire — never flew in a commercial jet or saw a color television, a VCR or a lap-top computer. He died in 1949. But, was his standard of living, therefore, lower than ours?

If you back out the electronic gizmos and gadgets — and concentrate on the essentials — like a house, car and college for the kids — then, I think, we have a big problem.

The younger generation must be starting to feel that this economy was not "made with them in mind." With wages declining across the board — and falling precipitously among younger workers — ownership of a house and a car must seem an impossible dream for many young people.

Of course, it all goes back to the decline of "high value added" job opportunities in the U.S. economy. The decline of America as the dominant global manufacturing power — is starting to ripple through our society and economy in ways that we have not even begun to appreciate or understand.

At the beginning of this century, a politician said: What this country needs is a good 5 cent cigar.

At the end of the century, it might be said: What this country needs is a decent house priced under $50,000 and a good $5,000 car.

If incomes can not be raised then the only way to restore our standard of living is to reduce prices to reflect the new economic realities. Making houses, cars and college affordable again will be the great challenge of the 21st century.

Sound-Off 729-4006

Callers keep line busy with comments, criticisms, observations

Last week, callers kept the Sound-Off lines busy with their comments on everything from the O.J. Simpson trial to the parking on residential streets. Readers may submit their comments on any subject of general interest by calling 729-4006 between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. weekdays and at any time during the weekend. Here are the comments submitted by our readers:

The people who think it is all right for their dogs to mess in the park would not be so happy if their neighbors let their dogs make a mess in their own yards. I think the city of Wayne should pass an ordinance that people have to pick up after their animals.

I think the O.J. Simpson trial has been detrimental to the American judicial system. I think that it is the biggest waste of taxpayer dollars that I have ever seen and it shows just how crooked lawyers are. This trial has gone on too long.

I would like to see the city of Wayne pass an ordinance about parking on residential streets. I have a neighbor that has four people in the household, and it is nearly impossible for me to get out of my own driveway.

I saw on Westland cable that Officer Ken Miller received many awards. It is so nice to see that Westland has an officer that can see and hear. Thank you.

A city-owned facility does not have a liquor license, yet they sell the "stuff" regardless of age. There are many things wrong there, and this is just one sample. Parties are held once a month. This center has been misnamed.

This is Walter Warren calling, and I just want to respond to the caller questioning the space I get. My sole purpose is to provide information to the public. I am tired of the misinformed public.

I think we should change the name of the city of Westland to Weedland, just by looking at the number of tall weeds growing in the area.

I have visited the Wayne library quite a bit and I live in Westland. I wish to comment about the building of a new library for both cities. I don't see why they are needed because the Wayne library has never been filled to capacity with patrons. So, why waste the money? They don't care. They just sock it to the taxpayers!

I am very sorry for Detroit Mayor Archer. Thank you very much, Governor Engler. I am taking my money over to Windsor.

I am calling about Mayor McNally's comments at Monday night's council meeting. She said that she spoiled the citizens of Romulus. I find this comment repulsive. It is truly appalling that the residents of the Middlebelt and Leroy Street subdivision have to beg for three years to get their roads repaired. Her proposition is to raise taxes on them through a special assessment. One only has to go to the Wick Road and Merriman Road area and see brand new roads - $8.3 million in cost - being put in for absolutely nothing. If this is spoiling people, I would hate to see what the opposite would be. Good going, Mayor McNally.

I can't believe your biased reporting. Here is an article on the Fourth of July celebration in Romulus and you do not put the current mayor's picture in. Instead, you put her opponent's. It sure shows who is bank rolling your newspaper and the campaign.

I believe there should be a limit on letters to the editor by one individual unless Walter Warren receives a paycheck. He is certainly writing a right wing column and you have given him a forum. This makes you look like a right wing newspaper. I am very proud of our new library, and I think it will be wonderful for the children. I am very appreciative of our city council.

I am absolutely in favor of the construction of the libraries in Westland and in Wayne. I congratulate all of those people who made it happen, and I look forward to the grand opening of both facilities.

In response to whether there should be a limit on letters to the editor. That's crazy! If Walter Warren wants to write 100 letters and those are the only letters you have to print, then print them. Maybe if they took the time to pick up their pens, they would also have a voice.

About the dogs in the park, it is a shame that people cannot pick up after their dogs. There should be a law saying that people have to pick up their litter.

There should be a limit on letters to the editor from one person.

Yes, dogs should be banned from public parks and beaches.

The local festivals have lived up to my expectations. I don't know how they do it all. Great!

It (the O.J. Simpson trial) has been beneficial. It is quite an eyeopener as to how crooked defense lawyers will be.

Response from the public on these and other current topics is being sought. Call in your comments to Sound-Off 729-4006:

Do you support Gov. John Engler's decision not to allow off-reservation gambling in Detroit and other Michigan sites?

Will dollars gained by future gambling, if approved, offset any negative aspects in the communities in which they are located.

Canton will not seek a hunting ban in the township. Do you agree with its position?

Do you support a trade port at Willow Run Airport?

Do you believe there is a potential danger in the deep well proposed in Romulus?

Now that Ameritech has entered the cable television franchise competition, how do you think that will affect the industry?

Do you believe the majority of citizens celebrated the patriotic aspects of the Fourth of July? Are people more or less patriotic today?

Letters to editor sought

We seek input from our readers, and welcome their comments in letters to the editor.

Letters to the editor may be submitted to Michigan Community Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Mich. 48184.

The letters should be no more than 300 words. Letters which are longer than 300 words may be edited to fit to our space limitation.

There is no limit on the number of letters that individuals may submit, however, only one will be printed in an edition.

We also will print guest editorials on subjects of general interest from individuals who have special knowledge in the area.

Broadway star returns to offer youths acting skills

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

His foundation for acting was built in Westland. Now after several years of success on and off Broadway actor Daniel Cooney has decided to return home and give something back to the communities he grew up in.

Cooney and his friend, Michael Sawaya, have created Jumpstart The Arts, a new program to give area youths a hands-on acting experience with professional Broadway stars.

"The program enables high school kids to perform with Broadway actors and local professionals," said Cooney. "After they receive a couple weeks of training, we put on a performance for area residents."

"The first one we're starting with this month is Jesus Christ Superstar, which will be presented at the Louis E. Schmidt auditorium in Livonia July 20 through July 30."

The idea for Jumpstart came about from a similar program Cooney was asked to be involved in while he was touring with the Fiddler on the Roof show.

"I was brought into a program similar to what I'm doing now," said Cooney. "They brought me in as a Broadway actor to work with the kids. They were just great. I started thinking about my hometown and how wonderful this program would be in the area I grew up in so I decided to create one this summer."

"I always wanted to produce a show here."

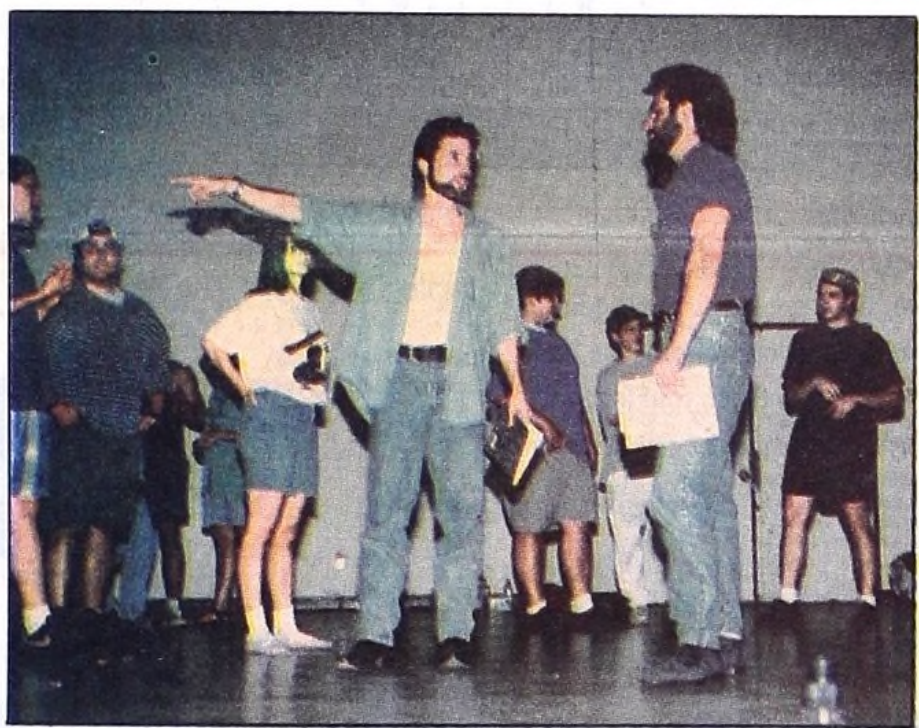

Cooney's list of credits on stage are endless. He has toured in Europe with Hair, portrayed Tony in Art Park's West Side Story, was Frederic in The Pirates of Penzance and portrayed the roles of Jesus and Judas in Jesus Christ Superstar.

Cooney said Jumpstart The Arts targets 14-to-18-year-olds. He and his partner in crime, Sawaya, auditioned approximately 125 young adults for the Jesus production.

"We were able to cast six students from John Glenn High School, but we also involved at least 18 other high schools from throughout the state," said Sawaya who is also the producer of this production and a Wayne County deputy sheriff. "For the main role of Mary Magdalene we were able to select Amy Law, a Plymouth/Canton High School student. She is very talented, and I'm sure audiences who see this performance will agree."

Cooney said he was impressed with the amount of talent he witnessed during auditions.

"It was unbelievable," said Cooney. "To see this much talent that is untapped is incredible."

ble. These kids have so much energy. It's really sad that some schools don't even have a performing arts department. That's why I wanted to bring this program here and introduce these kids to some of New York's best teachers.

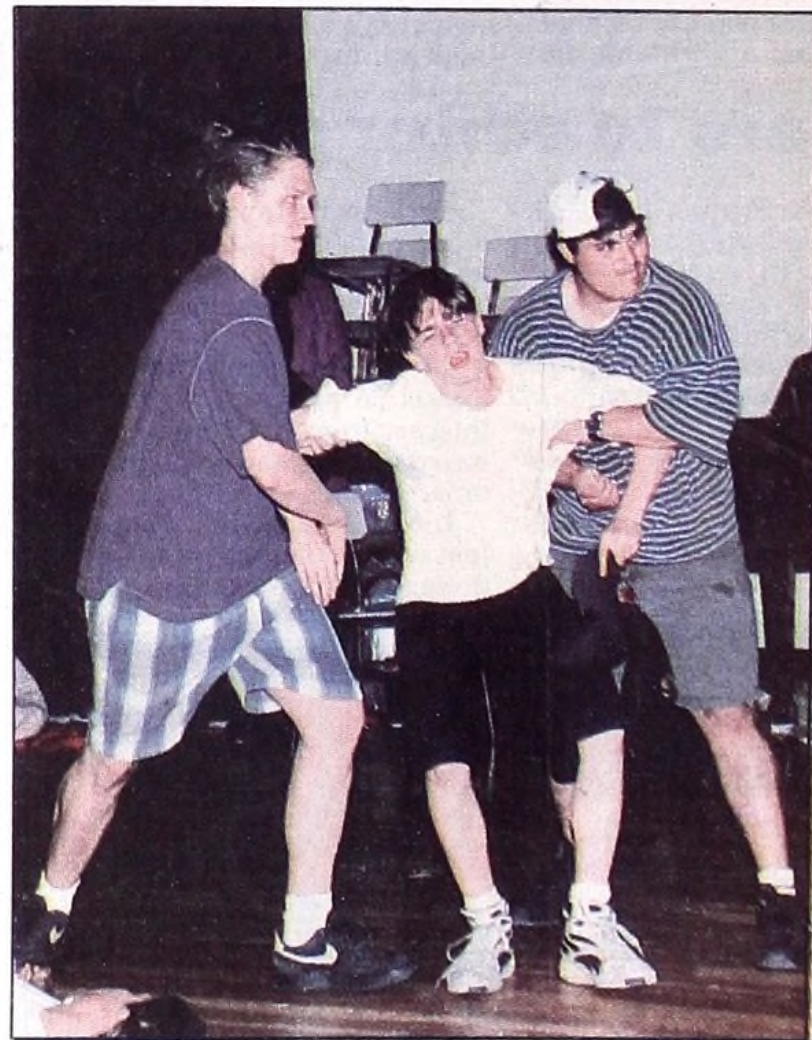

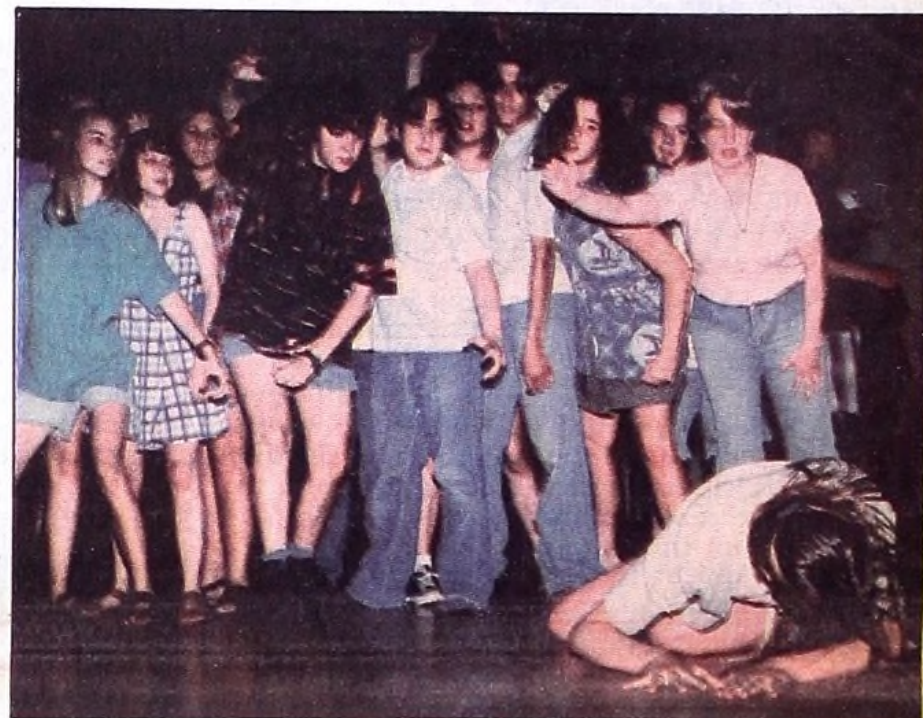

"I hope this program will continue on for a long time."

Cooney and Sawaya grew up across the street from one another in Westland. They have been friends for many years.

"It's great when you share the same philosophy about helping others with your friends," said Cooney. "When I started thinking about this program, the first person that came to mind I knew would help me out on this was Mike. This takes a great deal of com-

Canton resident lands lead role in Jesus Christ Superstar

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

Oh to be a star.

That's what Canton resident Amy Law is hoping for one day. Law has the honor of performing in an off-Broadway production of Jesus Christ Superstar with Broadway celebrities Dan Cooney from Fiddler on the Roof and Evita and Kirk Mouser from Phantom of the Opera.

Law, a Plymouth-Canton High School senior, auditioned with more than 100 other hopefuls from throughout the state for the role of Mary Magdalene. She charmed the judges with her exceptional talent and dazzling smile.

"I guess you could say I've always been a ham," said Law. "The first play I did was in the fourth grade. Since then, I had the acting bug. It has never stopped."

Law not only acts, but she also has an outstanding voice.

"I take voice lessons from James Morisi of Livonia," said Law. "It's been about a year now. I work on whatever shows I'm doing. I prefer to sing anything from musical theatre."

When Cooney and his producer, Michael Sawaya, showed up at Law's school to audition students, she said she was very nervous.

"You're talking about performing with some of the best on Broadway," said Law. "How many of us at this age get that opportunity. I just went out on stage and did my best. It felt really good when the audition was over. It felt even better when I heard I got the role as Mary Magdalene."

Other area students who will join Law on stage for Jesus Christ Superstar in supporting roles include: Canton residents Laura Dysarczyk, Michael O'Karma, Victoria Kallay, and Mike McConnell; Westland residents Larry McCloud, Ferdinand Torres, Timothy Seguin, Janel Coombs and Neil MacKinnon III; and John Glenn student Marquida Hobson of Detroit.

Who will replace Rockets' Hoenes?

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

While retired Westland John Glenn baseball coach Norm Hoenes is hooking bait in hopes of nabbing his share of walleye and salmon up in Oscoda this summer, Glenn athletic director Sharon Downs is looking for a replacement for one of the most successful high school baseball coaches in the area.

The 56-year-old Hoenes retired as educator-coach last month after serving as the Rockets' head coach for the past 29 years. He has coached and taught in the Wayne-Westland School District for the past 32 years.

Although his 1995 club finished with a disappointing 14-10 record, Hoenes has won three regional and seven district championships and also has reached the state's coveted Final 4 three times (1986, 1992, and 1993) during his tenure as the Rockets' head coach. He never, however, captured the coveted "big one" - the state title.

"We will have a rough time replacing Norm," said Downs who was quick to point out that it is school district and union policy to post the position as soon as it becomes available.

"Obviously, we would like a teacher who is in the school district, but if we do not find someone, then we would go outside."

Downs said that as soon as a list of prospective candidates is compiled she would begin interviews, and after the process make her recommendations to the school board.

One of the top candidates to replace Hoenes is his assistant coach Todd Duffield, who knows the system and has been associated with the Rockets for the past several years.

Hoenes' staff also included Jake Henry and Brian Stephenson, but they have not expressed interest in the top job at this time.

Downs stressed that, during Hoenes' tenure as head coach, the Rockets have traditionally fielded outstanding and competitive varsity baseball teams. She said she is confident that the next coach will do likewise.

"The next coach will have a tough act to follow," she added. "Our baseball program, thanks to Norm and his staff's efforts, has been second to none. We hope to find someone to perpetuate that tradition."

Coaches who are interested in filling the vacancy are urged to contact Sharon Downs at the high school.

Will it be sweet? Ex-Robichaud star returns 'home' as Romulus' next grid coach

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Former Robichaud High football star Mark D. Woodson has "always wanted a team of his own."

Woodson will get that opportunity this fall when he fields the varsity squad at Romulus High, replacing James Zoltowski, who stepped down to spend more time with his family.

Unlike Zoltowski, however, Woodson will be faced with the added challenge of preparing a team that has been accepted in a conference. For the past six years, the Eagles have been playing an "independent" schedule. Beginning with the 1995-96 school year, Romulus will be affiliated with the Mega Conference.

The Eagles' football team, although it had a losing record a year ago, will be aligned in the Red Division, the toughest of the three divisions in the conference.

Romulus will be taking on the likes of Belleville, the defending Red Division champ, team that went on to finish the regular season with an impeccable 10-0 record under coach Bob LaPointe before losing in the playoffs to Westland John Glenn.

Other teams in the Red Division include: Wayne Memorial, Dearborn Fordson, Monroe, Wyandotte, and Lincoln Park. It will not be an easy task for the new head coach.

Inkster athletic programs face problems

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

For the first time in more than three decades Inkster High School did not field a varsity baseball team.

The Vikings' women's track & field team, the defending Class B state champs, had less than a dozen members. The Vikings also lost its blue chip athlete, 16-year-old Charnell Lynn, the defending state champ in the sprints, to neighboring Willow Run High School.

Inkster's outstanding basketball team, led by All-American 6-6 forward Albert White, didn't make it out of the district playoffs because half of the players were ruled academically ineligible.

Wrestling, Cross country, Tennis are all in jeopardy.

The future of sports at the high school is in jeopardy because, parents say, of new academic standards adopted last January by the Inkster Board of Education.

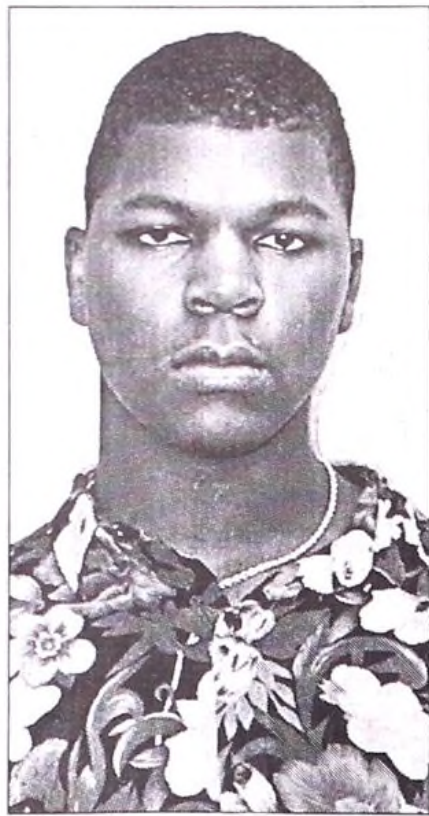

The new rule stipulates that an athlete who wishes to compete in varsity competition must "pass all of their subjects with a 2.0 or "C" average."

The standards are higher than those established by the Michigan High School Athletic Association, the august body that governs high school sports in the state.

The MHSAA rule stipulates that a student-athlete must pass four of his (or her) subjects taken during the previous semester in order to be eligible to compete in sports.

Charnell Lynn

The more stringent Inkster standards costs the Vikings a shot at the Class B district playoffs and apparently frightened some of the better athletes to seek admission at neighboring high schools that abide by the MHSAA rules.

The Inkster High varsity basketball team was ruled ineligible and it lost a chance to play for the district title and eventually cost longtime athletic director George Thompson Jr. his AD's job.

Thompson was replaced by interim AD Preston James, whose task it is to pick up the pieces of a program that is in jeopardy.

James would not comment on the status of sports at the high school. The administration, in the midst of selecting a new school superintendent, also would not comment.

However, school board member Lorenzo Moner, who recently was elected to a second four-term, said that board will stand firm on its commitment to education and the new rules.

It is my understanding that the board is not going to revisit this issue in the near future. It is going to stand put on the new standards.

- Lorenzo Moner

Moner said he realizes the importance of sports but it should not take precedence over education.

"It is my understanding that the board is not going to revisit this issue in the near future. It is going to stand put on the new standards," Moner said. "I was an athlete once and I understand the importance of sports but I don't think it's asking too much from a student to maintain a "C" average in all of their subjects.

"After all, students are in classes for an education. How many of them are going to be an Isiah Thomas? If one of a million make it in the pros, they're lucky.

"But education stays with you the rest of your life. I am, and I am this board is committed to providing our children with the best education possible. Some parents may be frustrated over this, but deep down in their hearts they know that we are right."

But Woodson has never shied away from challenges. He was a three-sport athlete at Robichaud, earning All-Area recognition as a member of coach Bob Yauck's championship-winning teams. He also earned letters in track and basketball.

In 1990, Woodson was a member of the coaching staff at Robichaud when the Bulldogs captured their first Class B state football title.

"I owe coach Yauck a lot because he gave me my first coaching opportunity, and he was a role model for me as well as for the other youth in our community. He continues to do an exceptional job at Robichaud."

Woodson also was a member of the coach Gary Moeller's teams that won the 1991 and 1992 Big 10 Conference titles.

After his collegiate career ended, Woodson played professional ball with the Orlando Renegades in the United States Football League and was a receiver with the Toronto Argonauts in the Canadian Football League.

"Mark Woodson brings to our program a wealth of coaching and playing experience," said Jesse Meriweather, athletic director. "I don't think we could have found a better person or coach."

Woodson says his credos are simple.

"It's not winning at all costs, but I do understand the value of winning," he stressed.

Economy is biggest advantage of Sentra

By JUSTIN WILCOX
MCN Automotive Writer

Economy, economy, economy. If you say it a lot really loud people will begin to believe that it is a swear word. Economy is not a bad thing in a car, I want to get as far as I can on a tank of gas. Where economy is pushed to its threshold is when it is used in the quality of a car.

Thus, I begin my review of the Nissan Sentra GXE. This car can be described as economical on fuel. It has an EPA rating of 28 miles per gallon in the city and 37 miles per gallon on the highway. It is also economical on the way it corners. And it is economical in the feeling of comfort given to the driver.

Nissan will dispute all of my claims, but trust me on this one. Granted the car only costs $14,639. This price gives you power windows and locks, cruise control, air conditioning, dual air bags, for doors, automatic transmission and an AM/FM stereo cassette. I know, I know, that is a lot of options for the money, but Nissan's competitors like the Geo Prizm, Chevrolet Cavalier, Saturn SC1 and the Dodge Neon all feel much more solid and perform like Formula 1 cars when compared to the Sentra.

The Sentra was easily disrupted on the interstate by passing cars and trucks. I got used to a swaying motion where I was constantly adjusting my position in my lane. What is ironic is that Nissan has seemed to score impressive sales records with its all-new Maxima and the Altima that has only been around for a few years. So, why no trickle down innovations into the Sentra?

Maybe I am being too hard on the little car. Maybe I just missed the entire concept. I began to second guess myself until a little girl on her tricycle took off from the stop sign faster than I did.

I did find two things that did impress me about this little econo-box; the air conditioning was so good that it probably could have frosted my face. The second thing was the fuel economy, even with the automatic transmission.

Nissan, I am sorry for slamming your car, but the competition is too strong in the econo-box race. At one time I remember one of the big automotive magazines voted the Nissan to its ten list. Simply amazing when you think of my review now. I am not questioning the reliability of the car, merely the amount of time and effort that went into designing what should have been an easy victory.

Maybe I am all wrong, maybe the Sentra is exactly what it used to be a few years ago. Maybe the American competition has made great strides. Maybe that is the problem. What a shame. NOT !!!!!
